

Homeschool and Online Academy Report

October 2016

What are the rules for home-based instruction according to RCW 28A.200?

- 1) File annually with the resident school district
 - 2) Instruction must be supervised by a qualified person
 - 3) Ensure that test scores or annual academic progress assessments are kept
 - 4) Ensure that a standardized achievement test approved by the state board of education is administered annually by a qualified individual

State law allows home-based and private school students to enroll in their resident public school to take a course or receive an ancillary service not available in the private school or home-based setting. By definition, these students would then become part-time students in the public school.

An ancillary service is any co-curricular service or activity, any healthcare service or activity, and any other services or activities.

What is Online Learning?

An online course is one where more than half of the course content is delivered electronically using the internet or other computer-based methods and more than half of the teaching is conducted from a remote location.

OSPI-approved online course providers enroll students through a sponsoring school district which then claims FTE to pay for certificated, highly qualified instructors.
